HOW TO GET TO

Castellón has a modern and well-integrated infrastructure within the Spanish and European Mediterranean axis, which greatly facilitates access to national and international cycle tourists.

The AP-7 motorway runs through the province from north to south. Likewise, the A-23 (E-07) motorway provides access from the interior of the peninsula and links up with the Cantabrian coast and the south of France. The N-232 road, for its part, connects directly with the north of Spain. Castellón is also part of the Mediterranean rail corridor, which means it can be reached by train from many European capitals.

Castellón airport complements this network of accesses, offering routes that shorten distances and make our cycle touring routes, our beaches, our mountain landscapes and our unbeatable climate, with more than 300 days of sunshine a year: a key factor for cycling all year round.

We cannot forget the port of Castellón, which welcomes cruise ships and opens new doors to international tourism, as well as the excellent network of buses and local trains that allow you to explore the most authentic corners of the province. From trails through vineyards to routes through natural parks and charming villages, Castellón is an ideal destination to discover on two wheels.

INTERNATIONAL

connections

Castellón-Costa Azahar Airport has experienced significant growth in its international air connectivity, consolidating its position as a strategic gateway for European travellers. By 2025, it offers direct flights to 14 destinations in 8 countries, including key cities such as Berlin, Brussels, Budapest, Bucharest, Krakow, Cluj-Napoca, Düsseldorf, London, Milan, Porto and Paris. This increase in international routes facilitates the access of cycle tourists and other visitors to the province of Castellón, allowing them to enjoy its landscapes and cycling routes in greater comfort.

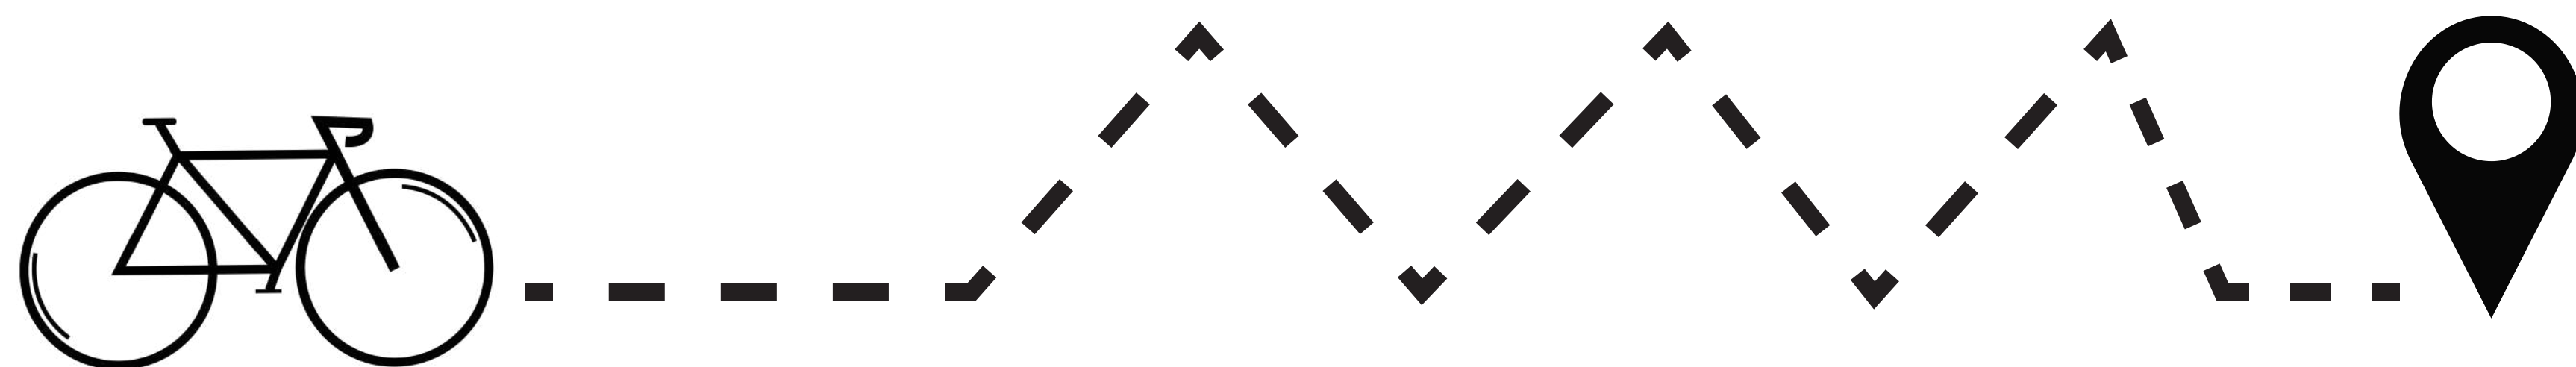

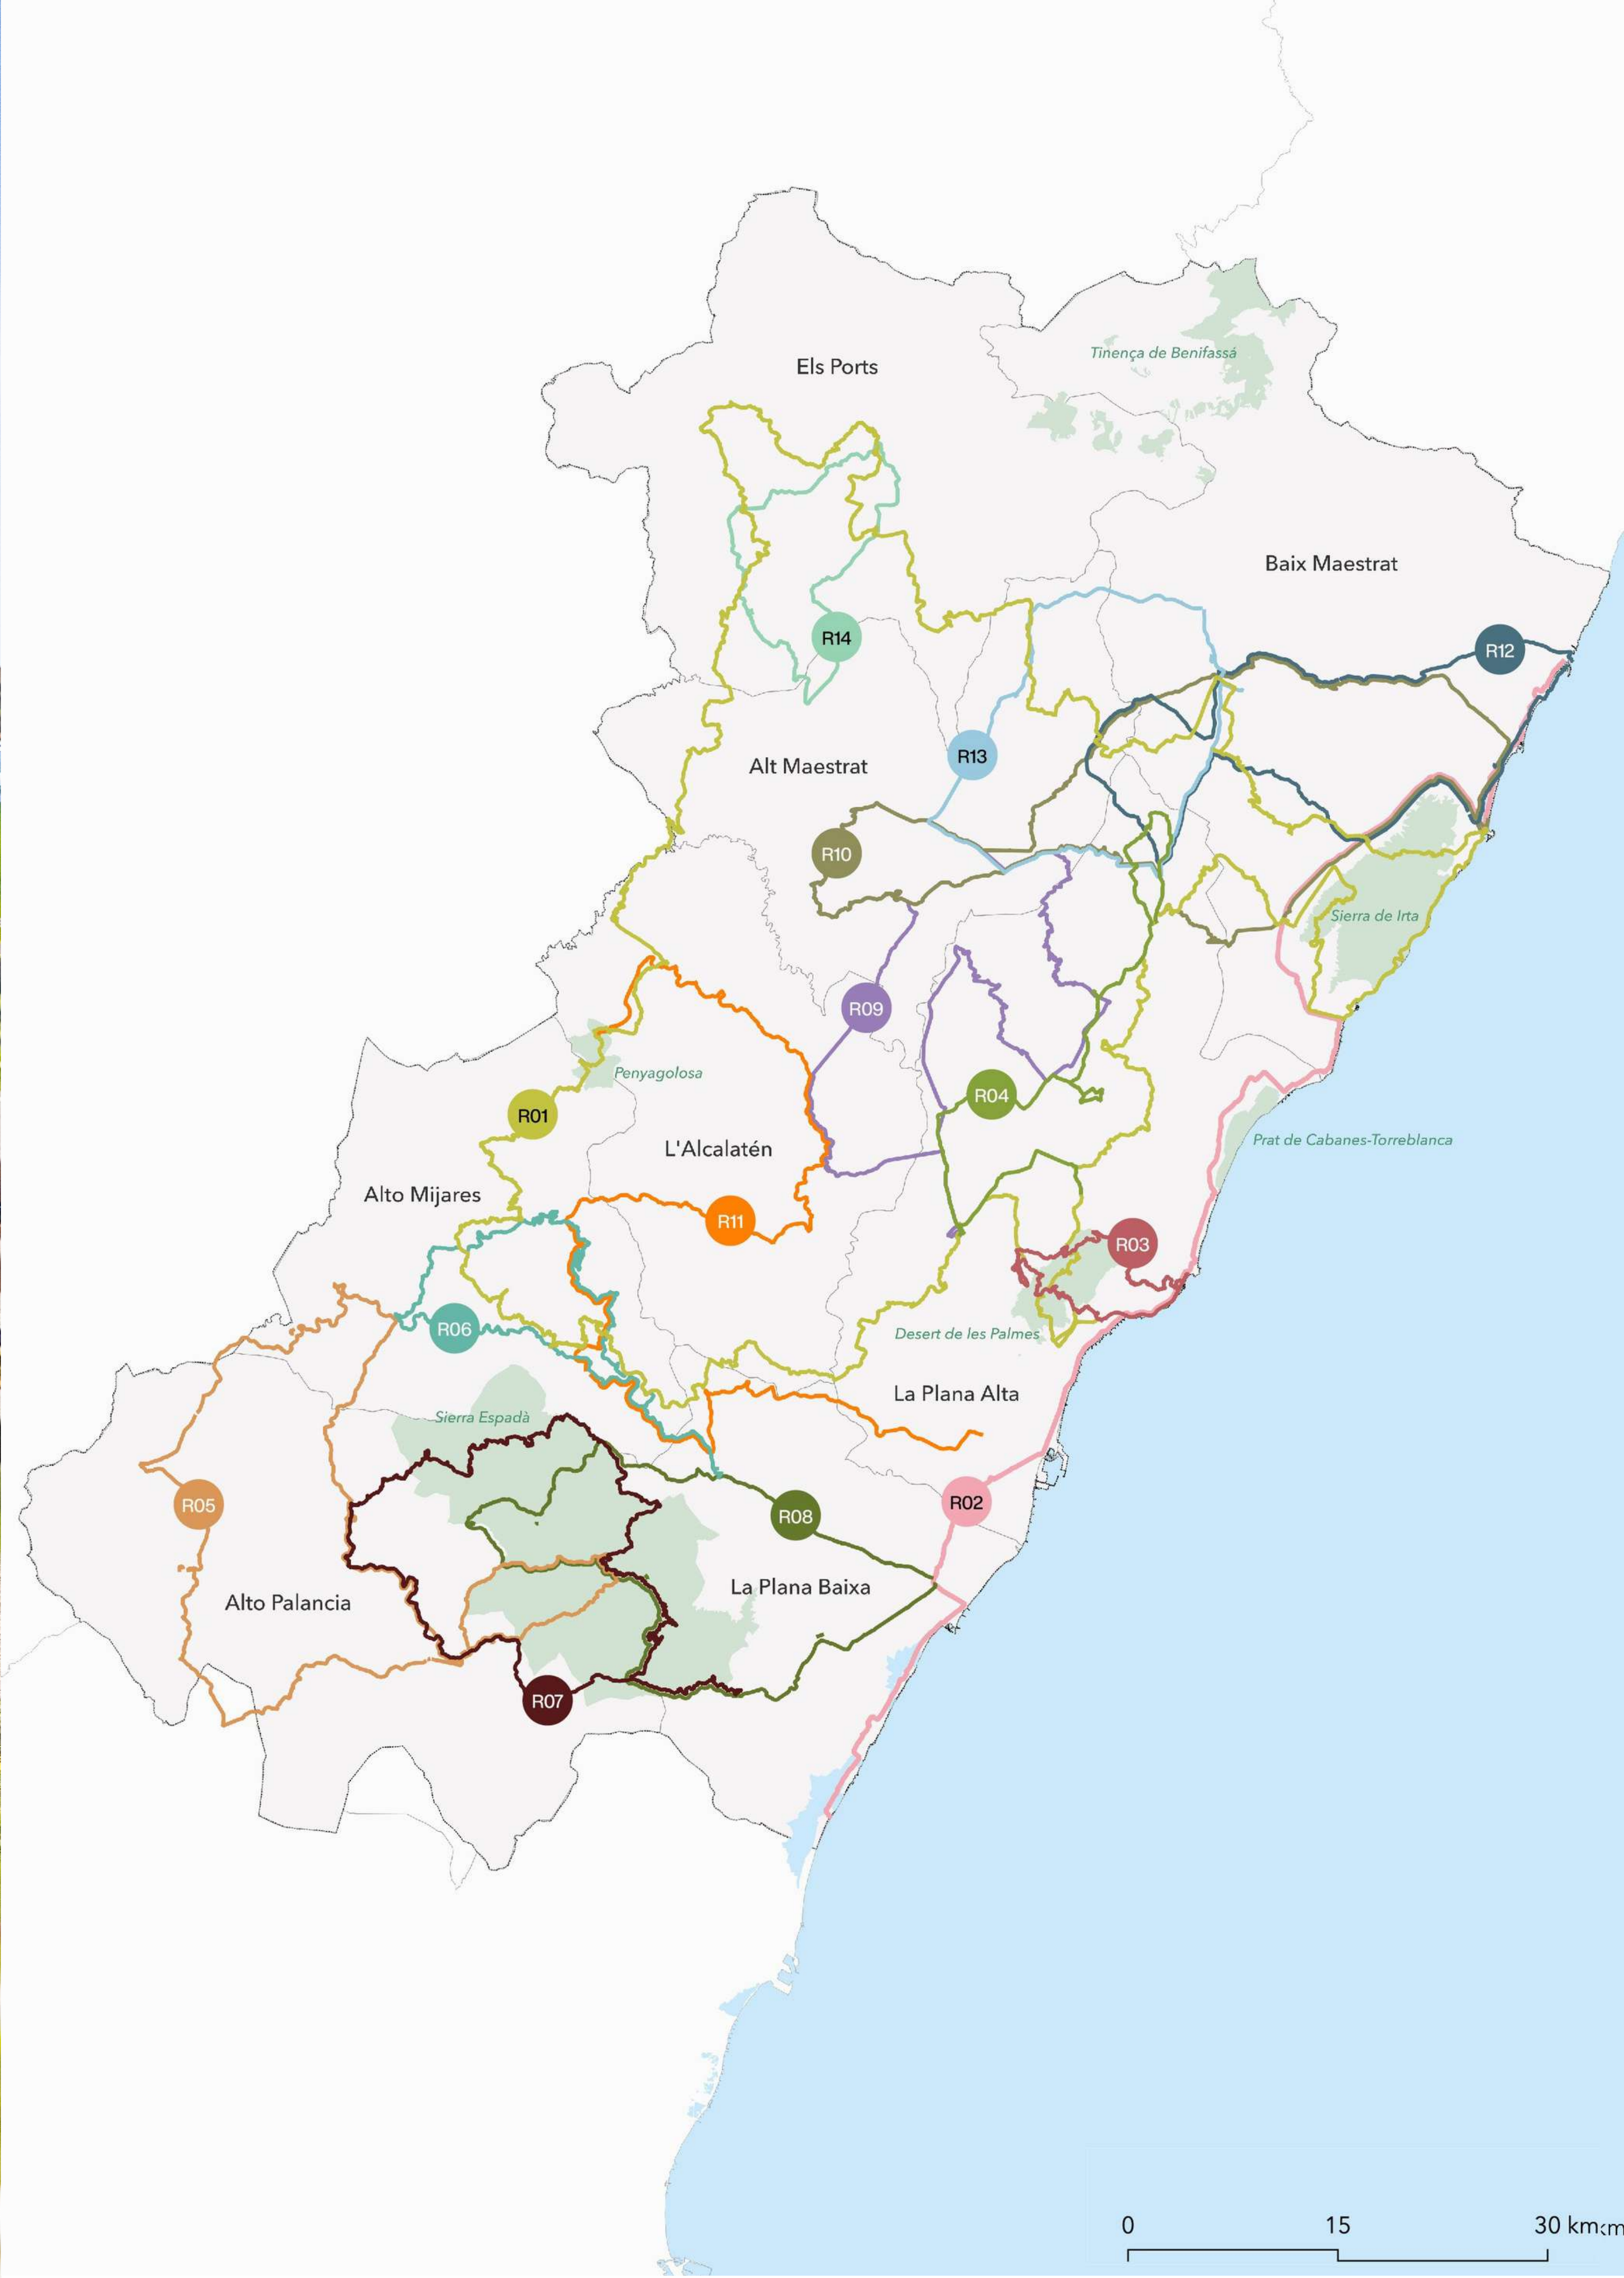

CASTELLÓN:

a destination with a lot to offer

Castellón has an important cultural and natural heritage which gives the destination great tourist potential. On a cultural level, it is worth highlighting the rock art of the Mediterranean arc of the Iberian Peninsula, which was protected as a World Heritage Site by Unesco in 1998.

GREENWAYS

Greenway of the Sea

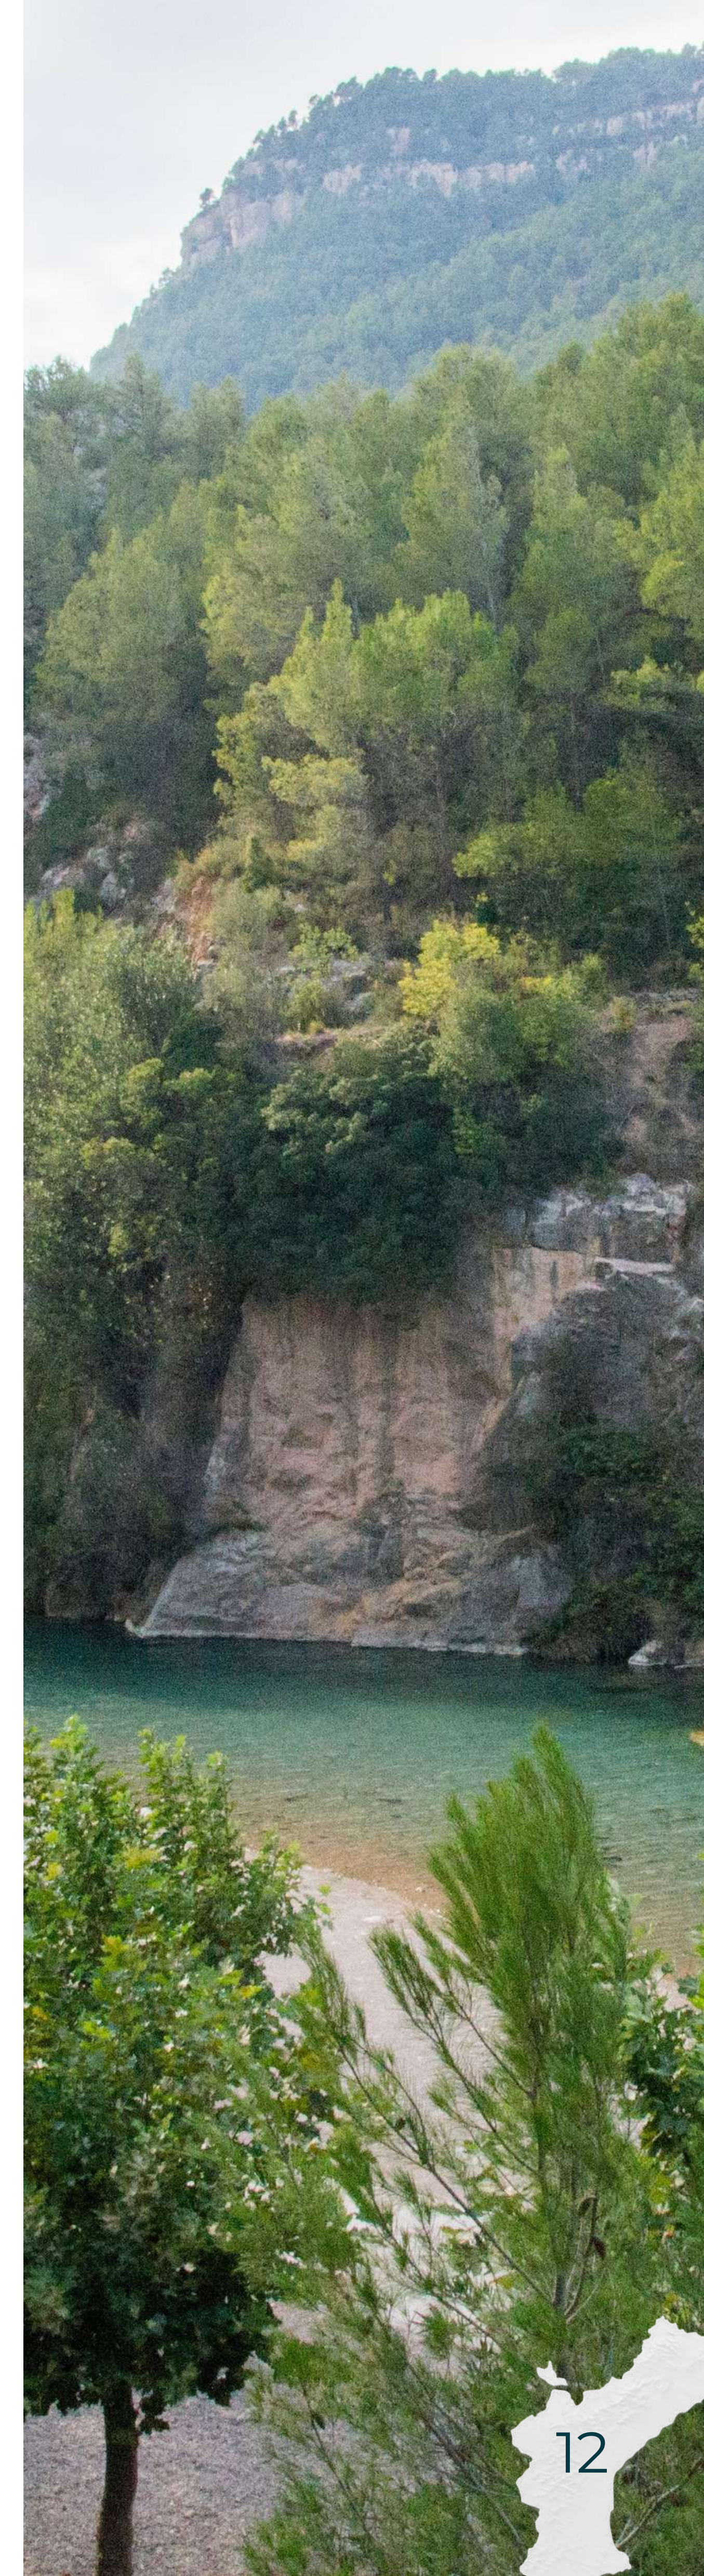

Located in the Valencian Community, between Benicàssim and Oropesa del Mar. It has a length of approximately 5.7 km. Its difficulty is low, making it suitable for families and cyclists with little experience. It has a flat route, asphalted or with compact road surface and runs parallel to the coast, with spectacular views of the Mediterranean Sea.

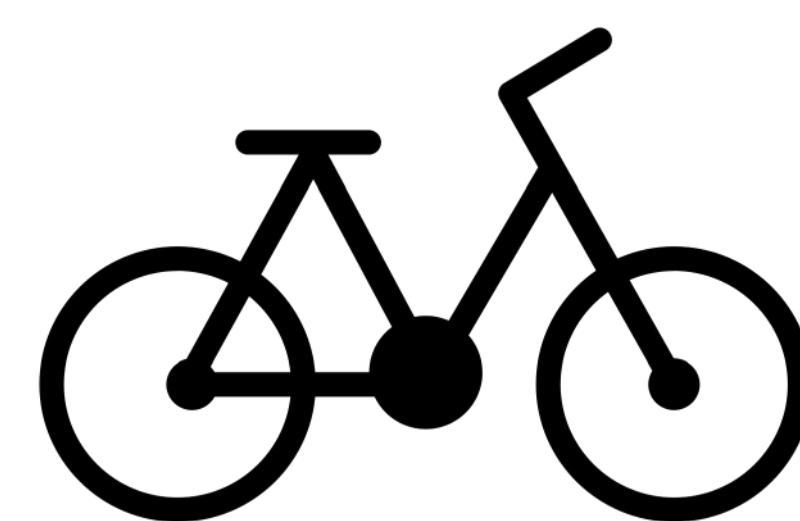

It has several passages through old railway tunnels (well conditioned). As points of interest, you can enjoy the coastal landscape, cliffs, coves and bathing areas. Ideal for quiet walks, jogging or recreational cycling. Easy access from Benicàssim or Oropesa by train or car.

Ojos Negros Greenway

It owes its name to the iron mines of Ojos Negros, in Teruel. It links the provinces of Teruel and Valencia, and is the longest railway in Spain, with more than 160 km.

It is the route of the old Sierra Menera mining railway, and is signposted, with several tunnels and viaducts. It has a downward slope in the direction of Valencia, which facilitates the route in that direction.

VIA AUGUSTA

Eurovelo 8 route

The Via Augusta is an ancient Roman road that connected the Pyrenees with Cadiz, and is the basis of the EuroVelo 8 route along much of the Spanish Mediterranean coast.

It is one of the long-distance routes of the EuroVelo network, which connects the whole of Europe by cycle routes. EuroVelo 8 links Cadiz with Athens, following the Mediterranean coast. In Spain, it passes through regions such as Andalusia, Murcia, Valencia and Catalonia.

Many sections are shared with coastal cycle paths, greenways and quiet rural roads. The route takes advantage of infrastructures such as the Vía Verde del Mar (between Benicàssim and Oropesa). It has a flat profile, ideal for cyclists of all levels and is usually well signposted with the EuroVelo 8 logo in more developed areas.
